1. FBI Intelligence Bulletin No. 120 - Item: Potential Misuse of "P" Visas

The U.S. Department of State issues P visas to individuals and their essential support personnel who petition to enter the United States temporarily for cultural activities, including artistic performances and athletic competitions. While the vast majority of P visa applications are legitimate, even qualified P visa applicants may claim extra persons on their applications as part of their entourage who do not otherwise have a valid reason to enter the United States. Recent intelligence indicates that terrorist groups may be interested in exploiting the cultural visa program to infiltrate operatives and support network personnel into the United States.
